

Fictitious Health Insurance Company Policy Portfolio

A three-page reference brief for five fictional insurers

Portfolio purpose

This reference document presents fictional operating policies for five made-up health insurance companies. Each profile describes a member promise, coverage approach, access standard, and service commitment. The profiles are designed for demonstrations, document retrieval exercises, and policy-comparison prototypes.

Shared policy principles

All five companies commit to plain-language member communications, protection of personal health information, reasonable accessibility accommodations, and an appeal pathway for adverse benefit decisions. Coverage is subject to the applicable plan certificate, exclusions, authorization rules, and governing law.

1. Cedarline Health Assurance

Practical coverage for growing families and local communities.

Member promise: Explain benefits in plain language and provide a named service contact for complex cases.

Coverage policy: Preventive screenings are covered in full when delivered by an in-network provider; specialist care may require a referral.

Access standard: Routine primary-care appointments should be available within 10 business days in participating service areas.

Service commitment: Written complaints receive acknowledgment within two business days and a decision within 30 calendar days.

2. Harborwell Mutual

Coordinated care with a steady hand during major health events.

Member promise: A care coordinator is available for members managing multiple specialists, prescriptions, or hospital transitions.

Coverage policy: Discharge planning, medication reconciliation, and post-discharge follow-up are included when arranged through the care team.

Access standard: Urgent nurse-line calls are answered 24 hours a day, seven days a week; emergencies should be directed to 911.

Service commitment: Case-management outreach begins within one business day after an eligible hospital notification.

Company Policies

Profiles three and four focus on digital access, behavioral health, and transparent utilization review.

3. Meridian Bloom Health

Whole-person care that treats mental and physical health as connected.

Member promise: Behavioral-health support is presented as a standard part of care, without stigma or separate navigation burdens.

Coverage policy: Covered outpatient therapy, psychiatry, and substance-use services follow the member's plan cost share and network rules.

Access standard: The digital behavioral-health directory displays current availability, language capabilities, and telehealth options when known.

Service commitment: Urgent behavioral-health requests are triaged the same day; crisis situations are directed to local emergency resources.

4. Lumen Prairie Insurance

Clear decisions, visible criteria, and useful digital tools.

Member promise: Members can view claim status, prior-authorization status, estimated cost, and appeal deadlines in one secure portal.

Coverage policy: A prior authorization request includes the clinical criteria used, the documents received, and the expected review timeframe.

Access standard: Standard authorization decisions are targeted within five business days after all required information is received.

Service commitment: A denial notice states the specific reason, relevant plan provision, reconsideration option, and independent review rights where applicable.

Utilization review safeguard

Clinical review is performed by qualified personnel using current evidence and the member's documented circumstances. Administrative convenience alone is not a sufficient reason to deny a medically necessary covered service. Members may submit additional records or request an authorized representative during an appeal.

Company Policy and Governance

The fifth profile completes the portfolio and establishes controls that apply across the fictional group.

5. Solstice Community Health

Affordable access with neighborhood partnerships and accountable stewardship.

Member promise: Care navigation considers transportation, language, disability access, and other practical barriers to receiving care.

Coverage policy: Community health workers and approved social-support referrals may be included as care-coordination benefits when authorized by the plan.

Access standard: Members may request interpreter services at no additional charge for covered care and important plan communications.

Service commitment: Provider-directory corrections are investigated within 15 business days, with confirmed updates posted promptly.

Portfolio-wide governance rules

Privacy: Member information is collected, used, and disclosed only for permitted operational, treatment, payment, and legal purposes, with access limited by role. Equity: Policies are administered without discrimination and reasonable accommodations are considered through the established service channel. Records: Claim, authorization, and complaint records are retained according to the applicable retention schedule. Escalation: A member may request a supervisor, file a formal grievance, or pursue an external review when available under the plan.
